

December 8, 1941: While there were still diplomatic talks between the ambassador of Japan in Washington and the American minister of the interior, the Japanese air force attacked American stations in the Pacific. Japan shows its mean and dishonest character to the world. Finally we have clear battle fronts. Now there will be a rain of declarations of war.

Will the isolationists in the U.S.A. finally open their eyes? What a delusion they were subjected to. How can anyone play the uninvolved during this gigantic fight for human dignity and freedom? How can anyone deny the reality of the tyranny that exists in the Axis countries of Germany, Japan and Italy? It is time for these dictators to discover their well-earned fate.

December 12, 1941: Hitler and Mussolini have declared war against the U.S.A.! Whom God wants to destroy, he has struck with blindness. The war can end only in the total defeat of the members of the Axis.

Yet if somebody were to suppose the majority of the German public agrees with me on this, he would be very disappointed. It is a hard punishment to have been born in Germany. My countrymen have become completely insane. The beginning successes of the Japanese have wreaked havoc among them. They simply have lost their minds; otherwise it would not be possible for so many Germans to say with full conviction that now a German victory will come about that much quicker! I'm shaken by such idiocy. I could cry aloud.

America, England, China and Russia have a fantastic chance if they attack in the right places. Attack, gentlemen! Attack on the weak points of the Germans, Italians and the Japanese.

Hopefully there is at least one man in America with halfway reasonable ideas. God please help us a little bit and give the American leaders the necessary courage and brains.

Attack the enemies of humanity!
